Dear Leonie,

ENVIRONMENTAL MONITORING

John Holland engaged Vision Environment to provide a water quality monitoring system on a marine tidal works project on Curtis Island during 2012 and 2013 over an approximate period of 4 months.

The monitoring technology that Vision was able to provide, which included on-line real time surveillance of water quality and system support, enabled the project to undertake and complete critical high risk de-watering in compliance with strict permit conditions and client expectations. Based on the service provided, I would not hesitate to use Vision Environment again and would recommend this firm to provide consultancy for any project that involves high risk water quality monitoring.

Yours faithfully
